FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS-Secoi d'Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. Mr. Edmunds, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported a bill to authorize the President of the United States to protect and defend the rights of American fishing vessels, American fishermen, American trading and other vessels, in certain cases, and for other purposes. He said he had also written a report on the subject, which he had been directed by the committee to submit, together with documents, papers, evidence, etc. He would submit them a little later. The report had been drawn up, considered and agreed to, but he had been authorized to go over it again in the sense of editing it. He gave, notice that just as soon as the bill and report were printed, so that Senators could examine; them he should ask the Senate to take du the bill and proceed with it and disposed of it at the earliest possible day.

Mr. Edmunds,

the earliest possible day.

Mr. Frye from the Committee on Forcign Relations reported amendments to be offered to one of the appropriation bills, appropriating $50,000 to take part in the international Exposition in South Australia, in June, 1887.

Mr. Hampton, by request, introduced a bill to promote the efficiency of the Civil Service of the Government by establish-ing a retired list; referred. ng a reured 1855, referred.

The came of the Expinsion at the Electric Light Station.

Providence, Jan. 19. An investigation into the gause of the fire at the Rhode Island electric light station, Saturday morning, by which the ergineer and firemaniest their lives, unkes at the indirect result of the coal shortage as felt here. Up to the preceding hight anthractic coal had been used in the follers. Being unable to obtain this soft coal was resorted to which the fireman was not used to handling. The dynamo room and the room above were pretty well filled along the cellings at one end with coal gas, where it was carried by drafts. An instantaneous combustion followed the opening of a fire door, to bank the only fire not banked. The theory of origination from electric wires is thus enorigination from electric wires is thus en

Bench, the Gipsy's Daughter. A large and well pleased audience witnessed last evening for the first time Miss Akerstrom to her new and original drama, "Renah, the Gipsy's Daughter." The scene is located among the peasantry of the North of France in the latter part of the 16th century. The interest, of course, centres in the leading, role, a young girl whose mother was disowned on her riage to a gipsy and who, after the death of her parents, makes her home with her miserly grandfather who hates and maitreats her, simply affording her a shelter for the work he can get out of her. On account of her glpsy blood she is dispised by the vilagers, who, however, are kept within bounds by reason of the evil power accorded her in their superstitious igno rance. A young artist becomes interested terday at the Katabdin Ice House. He of her life and eventually marries her was at work repairing an ice fork. As he with the consent of the grandfather who was holding the fork on an anvil and an-repents and opens his heart and money bags at the same time. There is nothing the end was thrown up striking Mr. Kel-ley in the cheek, making a painful wound. Miss Akerstrom finds full scope for the display of her ability to entertain an augrandfather, which was sadly exaggerat-

The sale of seats for next Monday and Tuesday evening's performances of the great play, "The Wages of Sin," will open o-morrow morning. The main points of the story in brief refer to a young man named Steven Marler, who has wronged a noor girl. Barbara Dale. She comes upon him for satisfaction, and her cause is championed by the Rev. Mr. George Brand, who is in love with Ruth, an orphan ward of Josiah Dean. Steven Marler is anxious to marry Ruth to obtain her money, and persuades the girl he has wronged to tell Ruth that the curate (Mr. Brand) had betrayed her. This she does, Ruth refuses the hand of the curate and hastily marries Steven Marler. The troubles of Ruth with her vagabond husband occupy most of the action of the play and cause many harrowing scenes, Ruth being obliged to
